

For those of you who have found yourselves wondering why the guitar player is always so slow on the uptake when it comes to reading music, I've invented the "Guitiano". This new keyboard instrument should help you appreciate some of the challenges guitarist face.

Here's how to play it: Place one hand on the notes you wish to play on the big keyboard. Each key on the triggering keyboard corresponds to each keyboard manual. You can play only one note on each manual at a time. Dynamics and volume are controlled with the triggering keyboard. Try playing some of your favorite simple pieces on this instrument.
D. Latarski

Guitiano

The shaded notes are middle C's